

LAUNCH [OK]TM

The future isn't something we wait for. It's something we build.

LAUNCH [OK]TM is more than a single presentation. It is a growing library of interconnected Resources developed across many years—Initiatives, Opportunities, infrastructure, technologies, Projects, research and institutional capabilities now being brought together around Oklahoma.

The images below Cliff Notes for Launch [OK] Library provide links to major sections of the Library. Select an image to move directly to that section. At the end of each major section, the button in the lower right returns you to the beginning. The titles beneath the images open short PDF overviews—Introduction and Library as bookends, with four substantive windows into LAUNCH [OK]TM between them: Opportunity, Stewardship, Funding and Ecosystems.

Doug Guides (included below) provide another path. Throughout the Resource, they identify subjects that may be worth exploring further and provide links to other websites and more extensive information developed around particular Initiatives, technologies and capabilities. When you follow one of those links, use your browser's Back button to return to LAUNCH [OK]TM and continue exploring.

Make Yourself at Home

The Resources collected here span many years, disciplines and perspectives. They share a continuing interest in what becomes possible when Communities, people, experience, technologies, institutions and ideas connect in new ways.

We are living through extraordinary changes in technology and particularly Digital Intelligence. Combined with Human Intelligence, new forms of Digital Transformation and rapidly expanding physical, financial and institutional capabilities, they create opportunities to explore, learn and build in ways that simply were not available before.

Our objective is to make Resources available within a framework that can help local Communities and counties expand their capabilities, pursue their own Opportunities and build upon what they already have.

Thank you for spending some time with us.

There is much more to explore throughout the Library.

We invite you to follow whatever interests you. Explore the links. Ask questions.

Bring your own experience, ideas and perspective to what you find.

LAUNCH [OK]TM Genesis is only a beginning.

What develops from here will depend upon people, Communities, institutions and capabilities that connect.

If you see an Opportunity, recognize a connection, or simply find yourself wondering "What if?"

—we would be honored to explore it with you.

We invite your participation. Let's Build!
